

SHORT CV: Wolter Braamhorst

Thematic Area: TA 7

Communication on digital heritage, a.o. the Heritage in Motion Awards for innovative projects in heritage, the Heritage Times and the developments of new formats.

Wolter Braamhorst (1963) is a broadcaster, documentary director and communication advisor. Originally trained as a cultural historian, he started working for the Dutch national broadcaster AVRO in 1989, first as a radio journalist and interviewer, later as television producer, commissioning editor and manager. In 2007 he started his own company TVCulture which focusses on international cultural projects and communication tools as well as strategic consultancy, mostly for the not-for-profit sector. In that capacity he has been communication advisor to the European heritage organisation Europa Nostra since 2008.

ViMM has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 Programme as Coordination and Support Action, under GA n° 727107